CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE

A great many people who are suffering from indigestion are not getting better. They can be cured. Proper attention to the diet and the right use of the stomach and the weakened organs are all that is required. The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a feeling of fullness, some have a feeling of weight on the chest, a full feeling in the throat. Sometimes the gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is a frequent and distressing symptom.

Miss Julia A. Van Sickle, of 724 No. Ninth street, Fort Dodge, Iowa, says: "Last winter I suffered from loss of appetite, general weakness and exhaustion. I had no desire for food of any kind. I had a nervous headache nearly every afternoon, especially when I began to get tired. My heart also troubled me—skipping a beat every once in a while."

"My father urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as he thinks very highly of them. In a few days I saw they were helping me. My appetite returned and I have not been bothered by stomach trouble or nervousness since."

When the Stuwe store was robbed several weeks ago of several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry, Dr. Franklin and Dr. Jack Ashton, opticians, who rent a part of the store for optical parlors, were arrested at the request of Mrs. Stuwe. They were exonerated in the Police Court, and later a negro was arrested in the store as a part of the stolen booty in his possession.

Which is Grain Inspector?
The question of who is grain inspector of Norfolk again bobbed up to-day, and it looks as if the question will have to be settled by a further action on the part of Council in joint session.

J. C. Bond, named by the Board of Trade, assumed the duties of the position on the death of the late Inspector Williamson.

This meeting will be very extensively advertised both by newspapers and hand bills, and a large attendance of farmers and citizens of the county is urged. Definite action will be taken at the meeting to be held on Monday. The plan is to build two permanent roads across the county from east to west and north to south. WILL SUE STEAMBOAT COMPANY.
Boat Failed to Stop at Wharf According to Schedule.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WATSON, Va., February 13.—John R. Campbell, of Newland, Richmond County, special agent of the Northern Neck Mutual Fire Association, of Lexington, Va., will at once enter suit for $500 damages in the Circuit Court here against the Maryland, Virginia and Delaware Company for not stopping at wharves on schedule. Mr. Campbell was fifteen minutes late to the wharf to board a steamer and the steamer scheduled to come to that wharf only came as far as Sharp's and returned to Baltimore. By this disappointment Mr. Campbell was prevented from fulfilling an important engagement.

A WELCOME WHISTLE.
People of Urbanna See the Steamboat for First Time in a Week.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
URBANA, Va., February 13.—For the first time in a week the Urbanna people heard the steamboat whistle yesterday morning from Baltimore, for we have been cut off by ice from that point, as well as from Norfolk and Fredericksburg and all points on the Rappahannock River. At a time like this, we sorely feel the need of Mr. Gould's whistle, and hope that he will lose no time in building it.

GUARD HAS FIGHT WITH ANGRY BUCK

Infuriated Animal Attacks Attendant and Has to Be Shot to Save Man's Life.

ROBBED CAMPBELL FARMER
Negro, Held for Grand Jury, Found with Money and Purse in Pocket.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, Va., February 13.—Park Guard Turner, of the Miller Park, while in the deer inclosure at the park this morning, had a desperate fight for his life with the big buck confined there, and it became necessary to shoot the infuriated animal before the guard could be extricated from his perilous position. The guard went into the inclosure shortly before 8 o'clock this morning to feed the deer, and the animal attacked him without the slightest warning, endeavoring to use his sharp hoofs as well as his antlers in the fight.

Mr. Turner managed to catch hold of one of the antlers, and as long as he would have been able to have held on no trouble would have ensued; but when the man's plight was discovered by a small boy he was nearly ready to give up that it would have been only a few moments before Mr. Turner would have been compelled to have given up the fight. The boy, whose name could not be learned, went into the inclosure and endeavored to help Mr. Turner, but he could do nothing, and then he ran for the superintendent's office. Several efforts were made to release Mr. Turner, and when this could not be done the deer was killed. Mr. Turner was given medical attention, and it will be a day or two before he will be able to be around.

For Robbing Farmer.
On the charge of robbing a Campbell county farmer, planter at a warehouse last night, John McCoy, a Blackstone negro, was held in the Police Court to-day for the next grand jury. The amount stolen was $10, and the missing purse was found in the possession of the negro.

The Norfolk and Western Railway has just discharged fifteen additional helpers at the Island yard here, this making about 100 discharges in the past two months. These men had probably secured employment at the Island yard again, as it will be practically put out of commission by the use of the Concord-Forest belt around the city, which is expected to be in operation in a month.

FARM HANDS PLENTIFUL.
Negroes Flooding to Buckingham From the Railroads and Mines.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BUCKINGHAM, Va., February 13.—Although the weather was threatening the first day of Circuit Court, there was one of the largest gatherings seen here in many years. The court was held in the morning, and it was a subject of remark that more negroes were here than have gathered together in the past several years. The negroes are coming from the mines and from the railroads, and it is likely that farm hands will be had on easier terms and for less money than has been the case in many years.

FISHING ON THE ICE.
The Catch in Jackson River Large and Prices Good.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
MONTICELLO, Va., February 13.—Fishing on the ice on Jackson River is now not only profitable, but profitable to residents along that valley. Messrs. Hiner and McCallister brought about 150 large white suckers to this place, and a large attendance of people at a good price. Fish have been protected more or less during recent years, and are said to be more abundant than in former years. The white sucker is readily snared at this season of the year, especially when the river is frozen over.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHESTERFIELD, C. H., Va., February 13.—Judge Watson to-day rendered his opinion in the appealed cases tried on Tuesday in connection with the charges of violation of the revenue and gaming laws at Camp Joywater, on James River, dismissing the case of Richard Elder, of Richmond, who had been fined for illicit sale of whiskey, on the ground that, though the evidence was conclusive that whiskey had been sold at the camp without license, Elder was not positively identified as the recipient of the profits. The fine imposed on Herman Nolte for

MIDGETS WILL HANG TO-DAY.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ALEXANDRIA, Va., February 13.—George Midgets will be hanged early to-morrow morning for the murder of Charles T. Smith, son of Lieutenant James, of the police department, which occurred October 20, 1906. Midgets wanted to know this morning if the execution could not take place at 1 o'clock in the morning. When informed in the negative, he expressed regret. The condemned man says he has made his peace with his Maker.

Midgets shot Smith while the latter was endeavoring to arrest him. He decamped, and was captured several months afterward at Harrisburg, Pa. He denies the crime.

A FAR-FAMED STREET.
New York's Fashionable Thoroughfare and Hotel St. Regis.

A RECENT INNOVATION
For half a century 15th Avenue has been the selected residential thoroughfare of New York, the most fashionable city street in America. Formerly private residences, many of them the homes of millionaires, lined this beautiful street, but in recent years a few palatial hotels have entered this select circle, and society has set its seal of approval upon these creations for public comfort and entertainment by a liberal patronage.

At the social centre of this famous thoroughfare, and only four blocks from Central Park, stands the St. Regis, a hotel of elegance and refinement. It is the chosen permanent home of many people who once lived in nearby residences, and also the temporary home of many hundreds of transient visitors to the city. The hotel is constructed with the idea of perfect comfort and convenience, and its select environment, and those who share its hospitality are certain to find the utmost comfort and enjoyment, with entire freedom from the least element of distraction. Influences. Within its portals you may enjoy the best that money can buy, and much which your money cannot buy. Yet, with all that these facts imply, the St. Regis is not above the common level of the average hotel, and it particularly invites transient patronage. Its charges do not exceed those of first-class hotels generally—in fact, in proportion to the comforts provided, they are even less. A large, well-furnished room, with bath and toilet, with bath in connection for $5 a day; or a parlor, bedroom and bath for $12 and upward; while the restaurant charges are at standard rates. Such being the case, why not choose the St. Regis as your home when in New York?

gambling at the camp was confirmed, the judge holding that proximity to the river, though on private soil, and the fact that the public was in the habit of going without restraint to the place, made it a public place, where the law could not countenance gambling. Walter O'Brien, of Swansboro, charged with entering the place for the residence of former Constable W. E. Grant, on the night of October 15th, was fined $100 and sent to the county jail for three months.

USSELL BROUGHT TO NORFOLK.
He and His Companion, Burton, to Be Tried for Accompanying a Riot.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, Va., February 13.—James D. USSell, the negro editor, and his companion, Samuel L. Burton, convicted and sentenced at the last term of court in Accomac county on the charge of inciting a riot, but granted a new trial by the Supreme Court, were to-day brought to Norfolk by Sheriff Kellam. They will receive their second trial in the Corporation Court here during the present term, the higher court having granted a change of venue. Commonwealth's Attorney Tilton will prosecute the negroes before Judge Hanckel. It is admitted that feeling is high against the men in Accomac county.

LIVELY FIGHT FOR MAYOR.
Indications That Many Will Be in Field in Norfolk.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, February 13.—Gossip about the next mayoralty race in Norfolk became active yesterday, following the announcement that friends of Senator W. W. Sale were advocating him for the position, and it looks as if there would be several candidates in the field. It is believed that Mayor James G. Riddick will stand for re-election. On the good government side those mentioned for the position are D. S. Burwell, President of the Board of Aldermen, T. S. Southall, President of the Common Council, J. T. Deal, of the Seventh Ward. Others mentioned, and heralded as strong candidates are Captain Tazewell Taylor and Colonel Thomas J. Nottingham. It is probable that the next thirty days will see the campaign opened in earnest.

IS NEARING CENTURY MARK
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINSTON, CULPEPER CO., Va., February 13.—The picture above is a photograph of William Corbin, the oldest living Confederate veteran, and his little adopted charge, Travis Carpenter, of Gettysburg, and "Uncle." The photograph was taken on the 20th day of January, 1908, the day that he became ninety-five years of age. The old cavalier is still able to walk around the house and even to go to see neighbors. His memory is good, and he loves to talk about the war. However, to exploit his own heroism, but to tell the stories of the struggle in which he played the part of a soldier, obedient to orders. Some of his epigrams are worthy of repetition. For example: "General Lee would have done a good thing if he had surrendered immediately after the battle of Gettysburg, and I knew it." The old soldier is now living with relatives, and with the exception of the small pension that he gets from the State is dependent upon them for care for him, and they do it, as well as it is possible for people of their means. He seems to be happy and content, and is as faithful to his little charge, as he was to the Confederate cause during the war.
